

COMPLETE ANNOTATED LIST OF CONTENTS

VOLUME I

- All This Could Be Yours 1
All This Could Be Yours explores the dynamics of a dysfunctional family when its patriarch dies. It is author Jami Attenberg's seventh book.
- American Cipher: Bowe Bergdahl and the US Tragedy in Afghanistan 5
American Cipher weaves the biography of Bowe Bergdahl, a US soldier whose capture by the Taliban-linked Haqqani network in 2009 and release in 2014 generated intense media coverage, with analysis of the complex military and political situation in Afghanistan.
- American Spy 10
A suspenseful thriller set during the Cold War, American Spy blends fact and fiction in the story of a strong-willed FBI agent who is recruited for an undercover mission intended to subvert the government of a charismatic West African leader.
- An American Summer: Love and Death in Chicago 14
In An American Summer: Love and Death in Chicago, the award-winning journalist Alex Kotlowitz presents a haunting exploration of the effects of gun violence on survivors and the wider community, organized as a series of stories from the summer of 2013 in Chicago. This intensely affecting book reminds readers that behind the grim statistics of inner-city crime lies the grief and pain of lives permanently ruptured.
- An American Sunrise 19
Continuing her legacy as a celebrated American poet, Joy Harjo retraces her family's journey on the Trail of Tears and reflects on the tribal history that has shaped her own life, as well as the lives of her fellow Native Americans.
- Ayesha at Last 24
In this contemporary version of Jane Austen's Pride and Prejudice, debut author Uzma Jalaluddin reimagines Elizabeth Bennet as Ayesha, a Muslim woman in her late twenties who balances a career as a teacher and her desire to be a poet with her complicated relationship with the Darcy-esque Khalid, a conservative Muslim.
- Baron Wenckheim's Homecoming 29
In Baron Wenckheim's Homecoming, a long-absent man makes a highly anticipated return to the Hungarian town in which he spent his early years, to unexpected results. A wide range of characters feature in this challenging, deeply philosophical novel.

Becoming Dr. Seuss: Theodor Geisel and the Making of an American Imagination 34
In Becoming Dr. Seuss: Theodor Geisel and the Making of an American Imagination, Brian Jay Jones chronicles the life and career of the titular author and the development of the authorial persona and literary point of view that would make Dr. Seuss one of the United States' most popular children's authors.

Biased: Uncovering the Hidden Prejudice That Shapes What We See, Think, and Do 39
A thoughtful combination of selected stories and smart analysis, Biased: Uncovering the Hidden Prejudice That Shapes What We See, Think, and Do presents a sharp, straightforward, and illuminating examination of the many harmful and often invisible ways implicit bias shapes and influences human decision-making.

The Bird King 44
G. Willow Wilson's novel The Bird King is a fable set in the twilight days of Muslim Iberia. It follows a concubine named Fatima and a mapmaker named Hassan as they try to escape agents of the Spanish Inquisition.

The Birth of Loud: Leo Fender, Les Paul, and the Guitar-Pioneering Rivalry That Shaped Rock 'n' Roll 48
A history of the men who pioneered the electric guitar; and, by extension, a study of American music culture after World War II.

The Bitterroots 52
C. J. Box's fourth Cassie Dewell novel pits the plucky character, now a private investigator, against a wealthy and influential Montana ranching family as she attempts to track down evidence in a case involving an alleged rape.

Black Enough: Stories of Being Young & Black in America 57
Black Enough is a collection of seventeen young-adult themed short stories presenting diverse examples of black American experience. Edited by best-selling author Ibi Zoboi, the book features a wide range of established and up-and-coming contemporary black writers.

Black Leopard, Red Wolf 62
In Black Leopard, Red Wolf, a man known as Tracker and a group of companions search the fictional North Lands for a missing boy whose identity and significance are shrouded in mystery.

Bowlaway 67
Bowlaway, a multigenerational novel set in nineteenth and twentieth century Massachusetts, explores love, loss, and candlepin bowling.

COMPLETE ANNOTATED LIST OF CONTENTS

- Boy Swallows Universe. 71
Eli Bell dreams of being a journalist, but he has to make it to adulthood first. This is difficult for a boy whose world is often overwhelming and always dysfunctional. He has to survive drug dealing, murder, dysfunctional parents, and a brother who does not talk. Surprisingly, he does this with a maturity and aplomb the adults in his life could learn to emulate.
- The Bride Test. 75
In The Bride Test, Helen Hoang explores the developing romance between Khai, an autistic young man, and Esme, a young woman whom Khai's mother has selected as a potential wife for her son.
- Bringing Down the Duke 80
For Annabelle Archer, the offer of a scholarship to become one of the first women students at Oxford University is an opportunity to leave her cousin's home and live her own life, at least for a while. When she becomes involved in a group working toward women's political rights, she unknowingly accosts the Duke of Montgomery for her cause. Montgomery cannot forget this bold young woman, and sparks fly between the unlikely pair.
- The British Are Coming: The War for America, Lexington to Princeton, 1775-1777 84
With The British Are Coming: The War for America, Lexington to Princeton, 1775–1777, Rick Atkinson chronicles the early years of the Revolutionary War in depth. He delves into the war's origins, its early military engagements, and the perspectives of soldiers and military leaders on both sides of the conflict.
- Broken Places & Outer Spaces: Finding Creativity in the Unexpected. 89
In this slim but powerful memoir, writer Nnedi Okorafor describes how she lost the use of her legs in a botched surgery and became a writer.
- Brown White Black: An American Family at the Intersection of Race, Gender, Sexuality, and Religion 94
In twelve autobiographical essays, Nishta Mehra explores the varying impacts on her life of intersecting identities, including motherhood, race, and sexuality. The book is both a celebration of her multiracial family and a challenge to the mainstream cultural systems of bias that she often finds herself facing.
- Celestial Bodies 99
Omani author Jokha Alharthi's novel Celestial Bodies, translated from the original Arabic by Marilyn Booth, follows three generations of families in a tiny village in Oman. The novel illustrates the radical changes that have taken place in that country over the course of the twentieth century.

MAGILL'S LITERARY ANNUAL 2020

Charged: The New Movement to Transform American Prosecution and End Mass Incarceration 103
Charged examines the shortcomings of the American criminal justice system. It is journalist Emily Bazelon's second book.

The City in the Middle of the Night. 108
Nebula Award-winning author Charlie Jane Anders's novel The City in the Middle of the Night takes place on a planet called January, where descendants of humans from Earth struggle to create a sustainable civilization.

City of Girls 112
In City of Girls, Elizabeth Gilbert explores midcentury New York City and the shifting cultures of the twentieth century through the exploits and heartaches of Vivian Morris, whose move to Manhattan in 1940 sets into motion a chain of events that come to define her life.

Conviction. 117
When Anna McDonald's husband takes her children and runs off with her best friend, her life takes a turn that defies reality. A strange journey with an anorexic rock star ensues, as she sets off on a quest to find out what happened to an old friend and to deal with her own secret past.

Courting Darkness 121
Young adult fantasy novelist Robin LaFevers returns to the setting of her His Fair Assassin series to tell a sprawling tale about two young assassins in an alternate medieval France.

Dapper Dan: Made in Harlem. 125
With the memoir Dapper Dan: Made in Harlem, fashion designer Daniel R. Day—better known as Dapper Dan—documents a lifetime of entrepreneurship in the ever-changing New York City of the mid- and late twentieth century.

Deaf Republic 130
Deaf Republic presents a series of lyric poems in the form of a short play with characters, with a strong narrative structure. The poems depict the tragic impact on an imaginary but all-too-plausible town suddenly taken over by abusive soldiers.

Deep Creek: Finding Hope in the High Country 135
Pam Houston's memoir, Deep Creek: Finding Hope in the High Country, is a paean to the author's Colorado ranch, which she credits with helping heal lifelong wounds.

COMPLETE ANNOTATED LIST OF CONTENTS

- Disappearing Earth 139
Julia Phillips's novel Disappearing Earth details a crime that sends shock waves across the harsh, volcanic terrain of Russia's geographically isolated Kamchatka Peninsula. As the police struggle to learn what happened, ethnic hostilities resurface and troubling memories emerge among diverse individuals directly or peripherally affected by the event.
- Dreyer's English: An Utterly Correct Guide to Clarity and Style 144
Dreyer's English is a guide to English grammar and style written by Benjamin Dreyer, Random House's copy chief.
- Drive Your Plow over the Bones of the Dead. 148
Translated into English from its original Polish, Olga Tokarczuk's novel Drive Your Plow over the Bones of the Dead presents a feisty, eccentric female protagonist. An animal activist and dedicated astrologer, she becomes involved in a series of gory murders that appear to have been perpetrated by vengeful forest creatures.
- Ducks, Newburyport 153
Ducks, Newburyport is a thousand-page-plus stream-of-consciousness novel centered on the thoughts and worries of a middle-aged mother of four from Ohio who works from home as a baker. It was short-listed for the Booker Prize.
- The Dutch House 158
The Dutch House is a story spanning five decades and three generations of a family deeply connected to the titular mansion purchased by real-estate investor Cyril Conroy. It is narrated in looping flashbacks by his son, Danny, whose relationship with his sister, Maeve, forms the backbone of the rich, realistic novel.
- An Elegant Defense: The Extraordinary New Science of the Immune System. . . 163
An Elegant Defense explores the science of immunology. Through the stories of four people battling different diseases, the book illustrates how the immune system works and how it can malfunction.
- Evvie Drake Starts Over 168
Evvie Drake Starts Over is a romance novel centered on a recently widowed woman with significant emotional baggage and a baseball player whose career has been derailed. A story about grief, love, friendship, and reinvention, it is American writer Linda Holmes's debut novel.
- Exhalation 173
Award-winning American science fiction writer Ted Chiang continues his trademark blend of intellectualism and humanism in his second collection of short stories, Exhalation. The works in the volume cover issues such as time travel, artificial intelligence, and extinction, reinforcing Chiang's position as a master of both science fiction and short fiction in general.

Fake Like Me 178

Told from the perspective of an unnamed painter, Fake Like Me immerses the reader in the experience of creative passion alongside the fear of imposter syndrome. As the protagonist rises to fame in the international art scene she follows in the footsteps of another young female artist, whose untimely death sets the events of the novel in motion.

Fall and Rise: The Story of 9/11 182

With Fall and Rise, Mitchell Zuckoff traces the tragic events of September 11, 2001, in New York City; Washington, DC; and Shanksville, Pennsylvania, through the stories of dozens of survivors and victims. A detailed account of 9/11, this book offers an immersive, panoramic history of that day's events and a fresh perspective of them for younger generations of readers.

First: Sandra Day O'Connor 187

In First, the distinguished journalist and author Evan Thomas presents an admiring biography of Sandra Day O'Connor, the first female justice of the US Supreme Court. For over two decades, O'Connor played a pivotal role as a swing vote on a court narrowly divided between liberals and conservatives.

The Fountains of Silence 192

In The Fountains of Silence, Ruta Sepetys explores the oppressive realities of Spain under dictator Francisco Franco through the experiences of several young people in 1950s Madrid.

Frankly in Love 197

In Frankly in Love, Korean American teenager Frank Li navigates love and relationships while navigating family relationships and issues of race and class.

Furious Hours: Murder, Fraud, and the Last Trial of Harper Lee. 202

Furious Hours describes a series of mysterious deaths, a shocking public killing, and a complicated murder trial, as well as the life, career, ambitions, and frustrations of Harper Lee, the noted writer who had planned to write about it all.

Gideon the Ninth 206

In debut novel Gideon the Ninth, Tamsyn Muir introduces a world of necromantic magic, interplanetary intrigue, and ancient monsters, telling the story of an irreverent young warrior who becomes unwillingly embroiled in a deadly challenge.

COMPLETE ANNOTATED LIST OF CONTENTS

- Girl, Woman, Other 211
Girl, Woman, Other tells the interwoven stories of women of color, their daughters, their mothers, and their friends, living and working in and around London.
- The Global Age: Europe 1950–2017 216
In The Global Age, the distinguished historian Ian Kershaw presents a well-written and comprehensive history of Europe from 1950 to 2017. He traces the trajectory of European affairs in both the East and West of the continent from the early years of the Cold War to the era of the European Union. Kershaw’s narrative will provide a useful starting point for anyone interested in understanding the complex challenges faced by Europeans in the twenty-first century.
- Good Girl, Bad Girl 221
In Good Girl, Bad Girl, forensic psychologist Cyrus Haven works to solve the murder of a teenage girl while becoming deeply embroiled in the life of Evie Cormac, a young woman with a traumatic past and an uncanny ability to distinguish lies from truth.
- The Heartbeat of Wounded Knee: Native America from 1890 to the Present . . . 225
The Heartbeat of Wounded Knee brings Native American history forward, from the defining 1890 massacre at Wounded Knee into the twenty-first century. Treuer, an Ojibwe, fuses narrative history, anthropological insight, informal interviews, and personal reminiscence to illustrate the past and illuminate the future of American Indians.
- Homeland 230
The first book by renowned Spanish author Fernando Aramburu to be translated into English, Homeland follows two families in a Basque village as violent terrorism reverberates across generations. The novel hinges on the activities of ETA, a real-life radical Basque separatist group.
- How It Feels to Float 235
How It Feels to Float, about a teenage girl learning to live with grief and mental illness, is author Helena Fox’s first novel.
- How to Be an Antiracist. 239
In How to Be an Antiracist, Ibram X. Kendi offers a new paradigm for understanding race relations and racism in the United States. Defining and exploring a number of forms of racism further clarified by descriptions of his own personal experiences, Kendi demonstrates the role that each person can play in advancing toward an antiracist world.

MAGILL'S LITERARY ANNUAL 2020

How to Hide an Empire: A History of the Greater United States 244
American historian Daniel Immerwahr's How to Hide an Empire: A History of the Greater United States (2019) chronicles more than two hundred years of the United States' ventures and escapades with respect to its overseas territories. A concisely detailed, readable, and at times astounding account of America's commitment to expansionism and its complicated relations with various territories, the book presents a fresh look at the American empire, its genesis, and often unsavory developments.

How We Fight for Our Lives 249
In his coming-of-age memoir, How We Fight for Our Lives, poet Saeed Jones chronicles his early life as a gay black youth, as well as his relationship with his late mother.

In the Dream House 253
Carmen Maria Machado's memoir In the Dream House explores the often-ignored topic of verbal and psychological abuse in lesbian relationships. Machado takes a unique, experimental, and wholly creative approach, blending research, pop culture, and poignant personal experience into an engaging and inventive whole.

Inheritance: A Memoir of Genealogy, Paternity, and Love 258
When author Dani Shapiro took a home DNA test, she learned that the man who raised her and whom she believed was her biological father was, in fact, not. This revelation prompted her search for her biological father and led to a journey of self-discovery about the significance of one's biology and place in the world, which she chronicles in Inheritance.

Inland 262
Told in alternating sections and set in in the late-nineteenth-century West, Inland revolves around frontierswoman Nora Lark as she tends to her young son, teenage charge, and mother-in-law, while awaiting her husband and two older sons' return from the wilds of Arizona during a drought, and around cameleer Lurie Mattie, as he runs from his outlaw past by joining the Camel Corps. Ghostly apparitions haunt Lurie and Lark family members, as each character faces an uncertain future in a hostile terrain.

Internment 267
Set in the near future, Samira Ahmed's Internment is a young-adult novel that depicts a United States in which the president and his administration order the internment of Muslims. Seventeen-year-old Layla Amin, interned at Camp Mobius along with her parents, is determined to fight back, and she becomes a leader in her camp's resistance movement.

COMPLETE ANNOTATED LIST OF CONTENTS

- Janis: Her Life and Music 272
In Janis: Her Life and Music, award-winning author Holly George-Warren presents a compelling look at the short but eventful life of Janis Joplin, one of the most famous singers to emerge in the 1960s. In a brief career, Joplin became one of the great blues musicians of the twentieth century, and a legend in rock and roll.
- K: A History of Baseball in Ten Pitches 277
In K: A History of Baseball in Ten Pitches, sports journalist Tyler Kepner explores the history and development of the titular sport through detailed examinations of baseball's diverse pitching styles and the players who shaped them.
- Kid Gloves: Nine Months of Careful Chaos 282
Graphic memoirist Lucy Knisley's book Kid Gloves: Nine Months of Careful Chaos chronicles her experience getting pregnant and giving birth. She also incorporates historical anecdotes about birth and women's health.
- The Kingdom of Copper 287
The second installment in a trilogy of fantasy novels about a young woman's rise to power in a world of djinn and magic.
- Kochland: The Secret History of Koch Industries and Corporate Power in America 292
Kochland explores the evolution of corporate America and the influence of corporate money and interests on politics and society through the story of Koch Industries, a large but secretive company.
- The Lager Queen of Minnesota 297
J. Ryan Stradal secures his reputation as a leading voice of Midwestern fiction with The Lager Queen of Minnesota, an irrepressibly charming yet deeply poignant generational family drama about three women whose lives intersect against the backdrop of the twenty-first century American craft beer industry.
- Lanny 302
Lanny, Max Porter's second novel, is a dark folktale about a young boy who goes missing in a small English town.
- Last Boat Out of Shanghai: The Epic Story of the Chinese Who Fled Mao's Revolution 306
In Last Boat Out of Shanghai Helen Zia presents an absorbing account of the exodus from Shanghai as Mao Zedong's Communist forces approached in 1948–49. Zia brilliantly illuminates the harrowing and tumultuous events that reshaped modern China through the stories of four young people who lived through the war and revolution.

MAGILL'S LITERARY ANNUAL 2020

Let Me Hear a Rhyme. 311
In Let Me Hear a Rhyme, a young-adult novel set in the Bedford-Stuyvesant neighborhood of Brooklyn in 1998, three teens scheme to make their friend a famous rapper after he is killed.

Let's Call It a Doomsday 316
Ellis is frozen by fear of the end of the world; her family relationships are strained, she has few friends, and she is struggling in school. When another girl reveals that she knows when the world will end, Ellis must face her fears and learn to overcome the problems in her own life if she is going to help others survive.

Life and Other Inconveniences 320
In Life and Other Inconveniences, Emma London's life finally seems to be going well. She has earned her doctorate, works as a therapist, and has a beautiful daughter. Then, her daughter becomes the victim of bullying, and a phone call from her estranged grandmother offers a possible escape. She must, however, learn to understand and forgive the woman who threw her out years earlier.

Light from Other Stars 325
Light from Other Stars, the second novel from Erika Swyler, follows Nedda Pappas, an eleven-year-old space enthusiast in the days after the Challenger explosion in 1986, who grows up to become an astronaut on a dangerous mission to the outer regions of space.

Lost Children Archive. 329
Valeria Luiselli's critically acclaimed Lost Children Archive—a New York Times best book of 2019—tells of families in conflict. The novel amplifies the plight of the most sympathetic victims of US immigration policies: undocumented Central American children seeking asylum who are detained, maltreated, and disappeared.

Lovely War 334
Dual tales of love and loss set during World War I are narrated by a chorus of Greek gods in Julie Berry's novel Lovely War.

VOLUME II

Madame Fourcade's Secret War: The Daring Young Woman
Who Led France's Largest Spy Network against Hitler. 339
Lynne Olson's Madame Fourcade's Secret War explores the significant story of the woman who led a French spy network involving about three thousand agents that helped defeat the Nazis during World War II.

COMPLETE ANNOTATED LIST OF CONTENTS

Maid: Hard Work, Low Pay, and a Mother's Will to Survive. 344

Maid: Hard Work, Low Pay, and a Mother's Will to Survive chronicles the struggles of a single mother to get by and provide for her young daughter by toiling at menial jobs while navigating the maze of complicated, regimented governmental programs in place to assist poor and low-income workers.

Mama's Boy: A Story from Our Americas 349

Mama's Boy: A Story from Our Americas is the biographical tale of not only its writer Dustin Lance Black but also of his mother, Rose Anna Whitehead Bisch. The memoir shares Rose Anna's story of survival as a polio patient in the 1950s and as a relatively conservative mother and a wife in the 1960s and 1970s. With a focus on his religious upbringing, Black also tells of his own struggles as a boy who identified as gay in a world that was not open to same-sex relationships.

Mama's Last Hug: Animal Emotions and What They Tell Us about Ourselves . . . 353

In Mama's Last Hug: Animal Emotions and What They Tell Us about Ourselves, primatologist and biologist Frans de Waal examines how emotions manifest in animals—particularly in apes such as chimpanzees—and the ways in which those emotions influence behavior.

A Memory Called Empire. 358

Arkady Martine's debut novel, A Memory Called Empire, is the first of a projected series about a futuristic, intergalactic empire called Teixcalaan.

The Memory Police 362

On an island where objects and concepts regularly disappear, and where the Memory Police keep islanders from remembering what has been lost, a woman struggles to live a meaningful life.

Metropolis. 366

Philip Kerr's last novel, Metropolis, tells the origin story of his most famous character, German detective Bernie Gunther. In 1928 Berlin, Bernie investigates a series of murders targeting the city's most vulnerable citizens.

Middlegame 370

In Seanan McGuire's novel Middlegame, estranged twins Roger and Dodger must discover their purpose as alchemical beings engineered to control the universe.

Midnight in Chernobyl: The Untold Story of the World's Greatest Nuclear Disaster 374

Midnight in Chernobyl presents an exhaustive and definitive account of the 1986 disaster at the Chernobyl nuclear power plant in Ukraine. Drawing on extensive research and interviews carried out over ten-plus years, Adam Higginbotham meticulously chronicles the events leading up to the disaster and its devastating, world-changing aftermath.

Miracle Creek 379

Angie Kim's debut novel, Miracle Creek, combines elements of murder mystery and courtroom drama to explore the effects of a tragic fire on an immigrant family who run an alternative therapy business and their patients. Alternating points of view help paint a complex portrait of small town intrigue and family dynamics.

Mister Miracle. 384

Mister Miracle collects Tom King and Mitch Gerads's Eisner Award-winning revival of legendary cartoonist Jack Kirby's most ambitious creation. Part of the Fourth World saga, this reboot presents the story of an alien superhero simply trying to live a normal life on Earth.

The Moment of Lift: How Empowering Women Changes the World 389

In The Moment of Lift, Melinda Gates chronicles her journey as a philanthropist. The book provides firsthand insight into how empowering women in developing nations can reduce global poverty.

Mrs. Everything 394

The novel Mrs. Everything follows three generations of women in a family who struggle to survive in a world that is unfriendly to those who are different. The stories of sisters Jo and Bethie Kauffmann trace the difficulties of women from the 1950s into the near future through the heartbreak, loss, and triumph these women experience.

The New Iberia Blues 398

Detective Dave Robicheaux searches for a serial killer terrorizing his home area while he struggles with the problems of aging and changes taking place in the region where he grew up.

The Nickel Boys 403

In his follow up to his Pulitzer Prize– and National Book Award–winning novel The Underground Railroad, Colson Whitehead offers a fictionalized account of the abuses that occurred at a Florida reformatory school. By interweaving a present-day narrative with one that takes place in the 1960s, he draws parallels between the civil rights era and today's racial picture, suggesting the ways in which the past continues to shape the present.

Night Boat to Tangier 408

Night Boat to Tangier follows two middle-aged Irishmen at the end of their criminal careers as they search for one man's missing daughter. It is Irish author Kevin Barry's third novel.

COMPLETE ANNOTATED LIST OF CONTENTS

- The Night Tiger 412
The Night Tiger is a magical realism murder mystery set in 1930s Malaya. It is Malaysian author Yangsze Choo's second novel.
- Ninth House 416
In Ninth House, the first adult novel from young-adult writer Leigh Bardugo, a Yale scholarship student with the ability to see ghosts gets involved with the university's secret societies and uncovers a dark mystery that spans centuries.
- Normal People 421
Normal People, the second novel from Irish writer Sally Rooney, is a cerebral coming-of-age romance between two young people in Ireland.
- The Old Drift 425
Namwali Serpell's debut novel, The Old Drift, is a sprawling, cross-genre, epic that chronicles four generations of three families in Zambia.
- Olive, Again 429
In this sequel to her Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, Olive Kitteridge, Elizabeth Strout revisits Olive in her senior years, as she continues to be an acerbic and outspoken mother, grandmother, friend, and neighbor in Crosby, Maine.
- On Earth We're Briefly Gorgeous 433
In On Earth We're Briefly Gorgeous, award-winning poet Ocean Vuong's autobiographical debut novel, a Vietnamese American writer pens a letter to his illiterate mother that traces his coming of age in Hartford, Connecticut, during the 1980s.
- On the Come Up 438
On the Come Up, the second novel from award-winning young adult author Angie Thomas, focuses on a young aspiring rapper coming of age as her family struggles against poverty.
- Once More We Saw Stars 442
Once More We Saw Stars is a true account of a life-changing event: the sudden, accidental death of a two-year-old girl named Greta. Told from the perspective of the child's grief-stricken father, Jayson Greene's memoir provides possible pathways for others recovering from the loss of loved ones.
- An Orchestra of Minorities 447
Chigozie Obioma's second novel, An Orchestra of Minorities, is a frenzied Homerian epic that unfolds around the precarious balance of love and violence. Told with the superb gravitas of an adroit storyteller, Obioma interlaces with entrancing charm Igbo cosmology and dramatic irony, delivering both an emotionally gripping story about hope and loss and an implacable denunciation of imperialist society. Obama's An Orchestra of Minorities at once bears the reflective weight of a poignant allegory and a cautionary tale.

Our Man: Richard Holbrooke and the End of the American Century 452

Award-winning and best-selling author George Packer presents an engaging biography of Richard Holbrooke, one of the most successful, yet also controversial, American diplomats of the second half of the twentieth century. Packer sees his subject, who combined fierce ambition with a powerful dedication to do good, as an emblematic figure of the period when American power reached its apogee and then began to decline.

Parkland: Birth of a Movement 457

Dave Cullen, journalist and author of the 2009 book Columbine, about the 1999 Columbine High School massacre, returns with Parkland: Birth of a Movement, chronicling the grassroots political movement formed in the wake of a 2018 school shooting in Parkland, Florida.

Patron Saints of Nothing 461

In Patron Saints of Nothing teenager Jay Reguero, rocked by the sudden death of his cousin Jun as an alleged victim of drug wars, travels to the Philippines to find out what happened. As Jay reconnects with his family and heritage, he uncovers awful truths and learns much about his own character.

Patsy 466

Patsy is the story of an undocumented immigrant who comes to New York City hoping, among other things, to be able to live openly as a lesbian. Meanwhile, her daughter, still in Jamaica, struggles with her own queer identity.

Pet 469

Pet, the young adult debut from author Akwaeke Emezi and a National Book Award finalist, is a parable that explores good and evil in a future utopian society.

The Priory of the Orange Tree 474

In the epic fantasy novel The Priory of the Orange Tree, Samantha Shannon chronicles the efforts of mages, monarchs, and warriors as they seek to prevent the return of the Nameless One, an ancient dragon who threatens all of humankind.

Queenie 479

Candice Carty-Williams's debut novel, Queenie, follows a London woman's romantic exploits. Both hilarious and tender, it explores issues including racism, trauma, depression, and self-love.

COMPLETE ANNOTATED LIST OF CONTENTS

- Quichotte 484
Salman Rushdie's fourteenth novel, Quichotte, is a multilayered tale built upon the classic novel Don Quixote, by Miguel de Cervantes. The setting is moved from Spain to the United States, and the time period is changed from the seventeenth to the twenty-first century to satirize the modern age and poke fun at contemporary society.
- Recursion 489
A science-fiction technothriller, Recursion explores the concepts of memory, reality, and time. After a revolutionary device intended to preserve and recreate memories for those suffering from dementia is misused to manipulate the past, creating overlapping time lines that disrupt society, the scientist who created the machine must team up with a detective to try to save the world.
- Red at the Bone 494
Jacqueline Woodson's Red at the Bone is a novel about how three generations of an African American family in Brooklyn are affected by an unexpected teen pregnancy and the young mother's decision to stick to her plan of attending college.
- Red, White & Royal Blue 498
Red, White & Royal Blue is a romance novel about a relationship between the son of the president of the United States and the Prince of Wales. It is American author Casey McQuiston's first book.
- The Rosie Result 503
The third installment of a trilogy, Graeme Simsion's The Rosie Result completes the droll saga of Don Tillman. In this entry, the brilliant but socially incompetent genetics professor and his outspoken wife Rosie are back in Australia, reacclimating, socializing, juggling careers, and dealing with various mental health issues.
- The Ruin of Kings. 508
The first novel in the Chorus of Dragons series, The Ruin of Kings follows the adventures of Kihrin, a young man destined to reshape the Empire of Quur and the world at large.
- Sabrina and Corina: Stories 513
Kali Fajardo-Anstine's debut collection, Sabrina & Corina, tells the loosely connected stories of generations of Latinas fighting for love, life, and acceptance in the traditionally Hispanic but rapidly gentrifying neighborhoods of Denver, Colorado.
- Save Me the Plums: My Gourmet Memoir 518
The fifth memoir by prolific food writer Ruth Reichl, Save Me the Plums tells the story of her ten-year leadership of Gourmet magazine. A fast-paced tale of celebrity, career, and food culture, the memoir offers an insider look at the final rise and fall of the storied food magazine.

Say Nothing: A True Story of Murder and Memory in Northern Ireland 523

Say Nothing is a nonfiction account of the murder of Jean McConville that explores the lasting effects of the time at which it occurred, during the turbulent, violent period of sectarian conflict known as the Troubles in Northern Ireland.

Sea People: The Puzzle of Polynesia 528

Thompson offers a wide-ranging survey of the history of Polynesia, focusing especially on the origins of its peoples and cultures as well as on explorers and scientists who have studied the area.

The Secrets We Kept 533

When Boris Pasternak began his novel Dr. Zhivago, he did not know the repercussions that would follow. While his mistress spent time in a prison camp, the novel became the center of an international plot to expose the political conditions within the USSR as American spy agencies worked to give the novel international exposure.

Shoot for the Moon: The Space Race and the Extraordinary Voyage of Apollo 11 537

Set against the background of the Cold War between the Americans and Soviets during the 1950s and 1960s, James Donovan's colorful account of National Aeronautics and Space Administration's (NASA) Mercury, Gemini, and Apollo programs culminates in the historic 1969 Apollo 11 flight that landed the first humans on the Moon.

Shout: The True Story of a Survivor Who Refused to Be Silenced. 542

Award-winning young adult author Laurie Halse Anderson's poetic memoir Shout: The True Story of a Survivor Who Refused to Be Silenced recalls her coming-of-age and the sexual assault that inspired her to write her classic novel, Speak.

Sight Lines 547

A luminous and ambitious new collection of poetry by experimental poet Arthur Sze, Sight Lines won the National Book Award for Poetry in 2019.

Solitary 552

Solitary is the inspiring memoir of Albert Woodfox, a member of the Angola Three who spent over forty years in solitary confinement in Louisiana's notoriously brutal Angola prison for a crime he did not commit.

COMPLETE ANNOTATED LIST OF CONTENTS

- A Song for a New Day 557
In a near-future society where large gatherings are banned and musicians hold illicit concerts in basements and back rooms, two very different women are drawn together by their love of music.
- Sontag: Her Life and Work 561
According to Benjamin Moser's exhaustive biography, writer Susan Sontag's fame as an icon of the intellectual left never brought the happiness she hoped it would. Nor did it free her from the anxieties of her early life.
- The Source of Self-Regard: Selected Essays, Speeches, and Meditations 566
In this wide-ranging collection of essays, speeches, and occasional writings, Toni Morrison shares her thoughts on such topics as literature, race, politics, her own works, and the works of other writers.
- The Starless Sea 571
In Erin Morgenstern's long-awaited second novel, a young man finds a book recounting a scene from his own life and enters a surreal magical land.
- Stony the Road: Reconstruction, White Supremacy, and the Rise of Jim Crow 575
Stony the Road explores race relations in the aftermath of the Civil War and how Reconstruction failed to eradicate antiblack racism in the United States as the ideologies of white supremacy persisted.
- The Testaments 579
A sequel to Margaret Atwood's acclaimed 1985 dystopian novel The Handmaid's Tale, The Testaments tells the story of the rise and fall of the Republic of Gilead through the perspective of three female narrators. The sequel topped the New York Times Best Seller list, won the 2019 Booker Prize, and was short-listed for the 2019 Scotiabank Giller Prize.
- That Good Night: Life and Medicine in the Eleventh Hour 584
Dr. Sunita Puri's debut memoir focuses on her experiences in palliative care, recounting interactions with patients and their families and compassionately describing the challenges of end-of-life decisions for all involved. She discusses subjects including the influence of her parents, the spiritual element of facing death, and the importance of doctor-patient communication.
- They Called Us Enemy 589
They Called Us Enemy, a graphic memoir by Star Trek actor George Takei, provides a firsthand account of a childhood disrupted by war and racial prejudice. As a young child during World War II (1939–45), Takei was confined with his family in a series of war-relocation camps designed to isolate Japanese Americans.

MAGILL'S LITERARY ANNUAL 2020

- Thick: And Other Essays 594
In the essay collection Thick, Tressie McMillan Cottom explores issues such as race and gender in modern America, often incorporating personal experience.
- Things You Save in a Fire. 598
In Things You Save in a Fire, Texan firefighter Cassie Hanwell confronts sexism within her profession, rebuilds her family relationships, and finds love after transferring to a firehouse in Massachusetts.
- The Tradition 603
Jericho Brown's third collection of poetry blends together themes of race, sexuality, family, illness, and loss, among others, in lyrical and inventively structured verse laden with references to other poets and to mythology.
- Trick Mirror: Reflections on Self-Delusion. 608
Trick Mirror is a collection of essays commenting on and reflecting upon various aspects of contemporary culture.
- Trust Exercise 612
Trust Exercise is a novel first centered on the relationships of precocious teens at an elite school for the arts, before shifting into an exploration on the power of narrative voice, truth, memory, and perspective.
- The Turn of the Key. 616
Mystery novelist Ruth Ware's The Turn of the Key is a modern-day riff on the Henry James classic, The Turn of the Screw, in which a young nanny is accused of killing a child.
- Underland: A Deep Time Journey. 620
Robert Macfarlane's natural history Underland: A Deep Time Journey explores various views of the underworld, including caves, catacombs, root systems, sinkholes, and sea caves. He considers the meaning of burial, preservation, and disposal in the world's hidden depths.
- The Ungrateful Refugee: What Immigrants Never Tell You 625
The Ungrateful Refugee: What Immigrants Never Tell You presents the story of Dina Nayeri as she, her mother, and her brother escaped Iran because of their Christian faith in the late 1980s. Nayeri weaves her own refugee story in with the stories of other refugees fleeing the conflicts of the Middle East over three decades, up to the refugee crisis of the 2010s.
- The Vinyl Frontier: The Story of the Voyager Golden Record 630
In 1977, as the Voyager 1 and 2 probes were being readied to explore the solar system and beyond, the astronomer Carl Sagan and a plucky team of enthusiasts scrambled to assemble a record of life and culture on Earth to be attached to these spacecraft. In The Vinyl Frontier Jonathan Scott shows how the resulting Voyager Golden Record captured the optimism and excitement of the Space Age yet also the social mores of its time.

COMPLETE ANNOTATED LIST OF CONTENTS

Wanderers 635

In Chuck Wendig’s gripping apocalyptic novel, hundreds of zombie-like walkers known as “the flock” undertake a mysterious journey to an unknown destination while a worldwide pandemic, a band of right-wing extremists, and an artificial intelligence machine contribute to the breakdown and remaking of society.

The Water Dancer 640

In The Water Dancer, Ta-Nehisi Coates tells the story of a young Tasked—or enslaved—man with a miraculous power and his journey to freedom in the nineteenth-century United States.

We Are Displaced: My Journey and Stories from Refugee Girls around the World 645

A moving account of people uprooted from their homelands, We Are Displaced includes Nobel Laureate Malala Yousafzai’s own story of surviving expulsion due to sectarian violence in Pakistan. Yousafzai also shares the experiences of displaced persons and refugees from around the world who have suffered similar life disruptions.

We Rule the Night. 650

We Rule the Night follows Revna Roshena and Linné Zolonov, young women from very different backgrounds who join the 146th Night Raiders, an experimental aviation force tasked with using forbidden magic to carry out dangerous missions behind enemy lines.

We Set the Dark on Fire. 655

Daniela Vargas has spent her teen years being prepared to become the Primera wife of an upper-class dignitary on her home island of Medio. However, she is hiding a secret that will be used against her if she refuses to help La Voz, a group of rebels. Dani must choose whether she will stand up for her beliefs or hide behind the training that her parents sacrificed everything to acquire.

When Death Takes Something from You Give It Back: Carl’s Book. 659

When Death Takes Something from You Give It Back is a memoir by Greenland-born Danish writer Naja Marie Aidt about the loss of her son. It uses a wide range of literary techniques and styles to profoundly express and examine grief at both the personal and universal levels.

The Wicked King 663
Now that Cardan is king, Jude rules Faerie from the sidelines, but her tenure for leadership is short and that time is passing quickly. While she fights to maintain Faerie for the time when her brother can rule, she confronts deeper problems with Cardan and a hidden threat to her family.

With the Fire on High 667
With the Fire on High follows Philadelphia teenager Emoni Santiago through her senior year of high school, during which she balances her aspirations of becoming a chef with her devotion and responsibility to the members of her family, especially her two-year-old daughter.

A Woman of No Importance: The Untold Story of the American Spy Who Helped Win World War II 672
Sonia Purnell's A Woman of No Importance is the astonishing true story of Virginia Hall, a one-legged American spy who fought discrimination to become an underground leader during World War II in France, where her activities were instrumental in speeding the nation's liberation.

Women Talking 677
Women Talking explores the aftermath of devastating sexual assaults committed against more than three hundred women of a Mennonite community over a number of years.

Working: Researching, Interviewing, Writing 682
In Robert Caro's Working, the Pulitzer Prize-winning author collects anecdotes culled from years spent researching Robert Moses and President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The World That We Knew. 686
A young Jewish girl named Lea navigates the terror of World War II, accompanied by Ava, a golem made from clay and animated to be the girl's protector. Having fled to France and entered into hiding there, the stories of Lea and Ava are intertwined with those of children and families from the French Jewish community.

Wunderland 690
When Hitler takes power over Germany prior to World War II, the lives of best friends Renate Bauer and Ilse von Fischer undergo a drastic change as Renate finds out that her father is Jewish while Ilse joins the Hitler Youth. Their lives, as well as Ilse's daughter's life, are irrevocably changed by decisions Ilse makes in her desire to be part of something bigger.

COMPLETE ANNOTATED LIST OF CONTENTS

The Yellow House. 694
Winner of the 2019 National Book Award for Nonfiction, The Yellow House offers a memoir of home and displacement. Through the story of her family's home in New Orleans East and its destruction by Hurricane Katrina, Sarah M. Broom offers an insider's meditation on a decaying and neglected urban neighborhood, and the African American community that called it home.